SMELTER OPENS FOR CUSTOM ORES

(By Associated Press.)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—After a long delay, the Thompson smelter has definitely decided to reopen as a custom smelter. The company is reported to have ordered resumption of its working force about the first of February when the entire installation will be overhauled for the purpose of changing it from its former treatment of copper ores exclusively. The smelter company is said to have made a contract by which it will begin shipping low grade carbonate ores from the upper levels of the old property to the smelter. These ores average about $14 and the extraction promised will be in the open market for both silicious and carbonate ores, which they expect to treat at a profit when the values are as low as $10. The smelter company is one of the strongest mining concerns in the world as it is owned by the International Nickel company.

ELKS CHARITY BALL NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Some of the good folks of Tonopah have been a little anxious to know just what the term "informal" means in connection with the Elks' charity ball to be held Friday evening, December 19, at the Alhambra.

All we can say, folks, is that you make the party just as informal as you choose. It is to be a regular Elks' dance, just like those which are held at the Elks' home. The Alhambra has been engaged for the affair because it is more spacious. We need more room, because we expect a record-breaking crowd. We believe that the people of Tonopah are awaiting this event with the keenest interest. They are looking forward not only to a good time, but to the chance of helping the Elks to fill Christmas stockings for the needy people of Tonopah.
